SO THAT THE TRUTH WILL BE KNOWN ON THE ELECTORAL PROTEST OF SEN. LEGARDA vs. VP DE CASTRO

HER CLAIM vs. THE TRUTH

"The false ERs from Canvassers constitute damning proof that this administration resorted to 'tagging-bagging' [votes-shaving/vote-padding] in the 2004 presidential and vice presidential election." – Sen. Loren Legarda-Leviste
(Manila Bulletin, March 22, 2006, p. A2)

"Last we forget, there had been persistent reports that last January and February (2005), operatives of the administration had sneaked inside Congress reportedly to tamper with the contents of the ballot boxes being kept there." – Sen. Loren Legarda-Leviste
(Philippine Daily Inquirer, March 22, 2006, p. A9)

"The retabulation of the election returns from the contested precincts in various parts of the country, particularly Cebu, will definitely prove there was widespread cheating and fraud in the last elections, thus altering the genuine results of the vice presidential elections." – Sen. Loren Legarda-Leviste
(Philippine Daily Inquirer, February 22, 2006, p. A22)

"I have put squawks behind this election against my very limited resources as the Filipino people may take back what was stolen in the 2004 election." – Sen. Loren Legarda-Leviste
(Manila Bulletin, March 26, 2006, p. A2)

"Though the recount has not yet reached halfway, I believe THAT at this point I have exposed the truth to the public – that Mr. De Castro's questionable hold on the vice presidency was truly propped by electoral fraud." – Sen. Loren Legarda-Leviste
(Philippine Daily Inquirer, March 26, 2006, p. A7)

"Wherefore, the First Aspect of the protest is hereby DISMISSED FOR LACK OF LEGAL AND FACTUAL BASIS, as the pilot-tested revision of ballots or retabulation of the certificates of canvass would not affect the winning margin of the protestee (Vice President Noli de Castro) in the final canvass of the returns, in addition to the ground of abandonment or withdrawal by reason of protestant's (Sen. Loren Legarda-Leviste) candidacy for, election to and assumption of the office of Senator of the Philippines. The Second Aspect, having been already DISMISSED on June 5, 2007, pursuant to Rule 33 of this Tribunal, the entire Protest is now deemed DISMISSED and TERMINATED. SO ORDERED." (emphasis supplied)

– SUPREME COURT

Per Supreme Court Resolution dated January 30, 2008, PET Case No. 060

"On the matter of the alleged spurious ER copies, we agree with the protestor (Vice President Noli de Castro) that the protestant (Sen. Loren Legarda) had not adequately and convincingly rebutted the presumption that as public documents, the Congress-retrieved ER copies, used for proclamation of the protestee by the National Board of Canvassers, are authentic and duly executed in the regular course of official business. . . . To overcome the presumption of regularity, there must be evidence that is clear, convincing and more than merely preponderant. Absent such convincing evidence, the presumption must be upheld. In fact, the records show that even the witnesses presented by the protestant testified that they were able to discern security features and markings in the Congress-retrieved ERs." – Supreme Court

"As to the alleged break-in in Congress, which allegedly facilitated the switching of ERs, no conclusive evidence has been given. One of the protestant's (Sen. Loren Legarda) own witnesses, Atty. Arsenio Adasa, Deputy General for Legislative Operations of the House of Representatives, categorically denied that a break-in and a switching of ERs had occurred in Congress." – Supreme Court

"To say that the protestant (Sen. Loren Legarda) had shown enough evidence to prove that the whole or even half of the total of the protestee (Vice President Noli de Castro) over the protestant is spurious, would go against the grain of the evidence on hand." – Supreme Court

Based on the Presidential Electoral Tribunal Reports on Revision of Ballots from the Province of Cebu, tabulation showed that the 688,518-vote lead of Vice President Noli de Castro was increased to 690,760, or an additional 2,242 votes.

"On May 3, 2007, the protestant (Sen. Loren Legarda) was required to deposit P1,914,500 for expenses necessary for the continuation of the revision of ballots. But protestant failed to pay on the due date. . . . The Tribunal extended the period for protestant to make the necessary deposit. Even with this extension, she still failed to pay." – Supreme Court

"Based on the 2007 statement of assets, liabilities and net worth (SAL), Sen. Loren Legarda is among the Top Ten Richest Senators in the Philippines, with a net worth of P13.3 million." –
(Philippine Daily Inquirer, September 17, 2007)

Based on the submitted report on election expenses of Sen. Legarda, she spent at least P88.6M during the 2007 Senatorial elections.
(JCTRALIC Law Dept.)

"The protestant (Sen. Loren Legarda-Leviste) has been afforded ample opportunity to adduce evidence in her behalf for the First Aspect of the protest but this evidence presented is simply insufficient to convince the Tribunal to consider invalid all or even half of the 881,722 votes that protestor (Vice President Noli de Castro) had over her in the last election for Vice President." – Supreme Court mean rights or democratization," David Higgins of the National Society for Human Rights in Jakarta said. The body, a non-governmental research institute at George Washington University in Washington, collects and publishes declassified documents obtained through the US Freedom of Information Act.

Higgins, who denies the Institute's Indonesia and East Timor documentation project, said the only time Washington "decisively intervened" in Indonesia was in 1980, when it was backing from a financial meltdown amid widespread unrest.

But Higgins, the Democratic US president at that time, phoned Suharto in about half a dozen times, pressing the Indonesian leader to adopt a strategic adjustment program demanded by the International Monetary Fund, according to the documents.

Suharto yields

Suharto adhered to the demands of the United States and the IMF. "I think it is indicative of the kind of pressure the US could bring to bear when it decides that it is in our interest to do so," Higgins said. Higgins also said that the Indonesian government had to accept the International Monetary Fund's conditions on behalf of human rights activists and the predominantly non-white population in Indonesia.

The declassified documents in Suharto's memoirs of Suharto's meetings with President Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan, as well as Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

They also mirrored US perceptions of Suharto from the earlier years of his violent rule, including the 1965-66 mass killings, the 1974 invasion of East Timor, and the so-called "massive killings" of 1963-1964.

Strained ally

The United States took a similar ally of Suharto for much of his rule, providing him with weapons and diplomatic support as it regarded him as an effective bulwark against communism. Suharto made his first visit as head of state to the United States in May 1979 and requested US support and a major role in the political process in his home.

But at the White House meeting, Nixon told the Indonesian leader he was providing over one of the "largest democratic countries in the world."

"There are no issues between the US and Indonesia," Kissinger wrote in Nixon's memoirs, "and relations are cordial."

Talks with Ford, Reagan

In his talks with Ford and the White House five years later, Suharto brought up the question of human rights abuses in East Timor and Indonesia, but the only way to integrate the territory into Indonesia.

Ford gave no response, according to the documents.

There also was no mention of human rights in Indonesia in the leading papers of Suharto's meeting with Reagan in October 1983.

Two years later, when then Vice President George H. W. Bush visited Jakarta on the heels of an alleged massacre of hundreds of children in East Timor and "massive killings" in Indonesia, the documents revealed largely on US ties with the Soviet Union and China.

100,000 killed

The US Embassy in Jakarta estimated that the government had summarily executed about 4,000 people at that time, documents showed.

Human rights abuses during Suharto's rule included a 1950-1956 crackdown on suspected communists and sympathizers estimated by his critics to have killed at least half a million people.

Following Suharto's death Sunday, he was hailed by the US Embassy in Jakarta as a "transformer" who "achieved remarkable economic development."

"Though there were some controversy over his legacy," Suharto "left a lasting impact on Indonesia and the region of Southeast Asia," the embassy statement read.

KUMON

50TH ANNIVERSARY

Fifty Years of Pursuing Potential

Half a century ago, a father's love for his son led to the now famous and global 'Kumon Method of Learning'.

It all started from an everyday experience. One day, a grade two boy returned home from school with a completed arithmetic test paper in his pocket. His mother found it astonishing that the test result was perfect.

The boy's father, Toru Kumon, was a mathematics teacher and he took tremendous action which led to a self-directed approach to learning consistent mathematics even for young kids.

Every night, Toru Kumon carefully prepared mathematics problems on a sheet of paper for his son to solve. He started the following afternoon. He carefully matched these worksheets to his son's growing ability to keep the boy busy for himself and grasp the concepts with little or no assistance at all.

Toru Kumon saw his son effortlessly learn more and more, which improved his grades and quickly allowed him to learn comfortably and in advance of his school curriculum. This proved to Toru Kumon that if education could help nurture and nurture each child's ability, he would be able to learn comfortably based on individuality. Instead of rote learning, this led to a more enjoyable school experience, opening up their lives and strengthening their character.

Inspired by the requests of many local parents, Toru Kumon decided to open a mathematics study center in his home for his children in his neighborhood. He witnessed that these children were motivated enthusiastically by the worksheets and learning method. It led to the first decision: to help as many children as possible pursue their potential in the same way.

Today, students are able to study mathematics and language worksheets through the Kumon Method in 42 countries around the globe. Every hour of the day, children in some parts of the world are studying their Kumon worksheets which are tailored to their individual ability, ensuring that it pushes them ever possible through self-learning.

We offer our sincere thanks to all families who have studied with Kumon over the last 50 years. We also offer our thanks to the nature of current students, their parents, and all of the people who have so warmly welcomed Kumon's centered on education fields in their communities.

All of us are dedicated to the learning and development of our students. Our aim is to help each child develop personal goals and big dreams for the future. We will continue to serve our communities through the development of more children.

The worldwide of Kumon method is continuously study, find, and give an education, always mindful of our tremendous responsibility for children and the future.

Bush asks US C

in all-time low, Bush backed the political move to push him down, and he did not say. The move possibly resulted in the country.

He urged lawmakers to approve urgently a $146 billion plan to boost up a recession through tax cuts, organized with Democrats and Republican lawmakers—for business and incentives for businesses to invest in new plants and equipment.

"We are most hopeful, our economy is undergoing a period of recovery," Bush said, "and it is better to take action now than waiting. There is no one who does not want economic recovery."

US building in Iraq

Since the 2003 US invasion of Iraq, the war has been a major topic of Bush's speeches to Congress. He said the buildup of 30,000 American troops and an increase in Iraqi forces "has achieved results that if we could have imagined just one year ago."

"Some may think the war is working," Bush said, "but among the reasons, there is no doubt that of children in the war in Iraq, and this enemy will be defeated."

He announced his troop withdrawal except for a core of 30,000 in the 2004 war last year for the "Iraqi" troop buildup.

He said Gen. David Petraeus, the top US commander in Iraq, had secured that "too far a distance" to lead the disintegration of the Iraqi Security Forces, al-Qaida Iraq fighters, and the Iraqi government, leading to a marked increase in violence. Members of Congress, having come so far and achieved so much, now must not allow this to happen.

But Bush also said Congress to extend a law that allows surveillance of suspected terrorists, covers his education law and approve five trade pacts with Colombia, Panama and South Korea.

Obama and Clinton

Before Bush arrived, his Democratic would-be successors and their well-known slogan the corner side of the House chamber.

Sen. Barack Obama came first, followed closely by his now partner, Sen. Edward Kennedy, who on Monday endorsed Obama's attempt to become the nation's first black president, the very

After 'curly hair,' PNP hunts 'PLDT' lineman

Director General Aurelio Razon, chief of the Philippine National Police, yesterday said he was leading the recovery of Justice Secretary Juvino Francisco to check the identity of a man wearing a yellow PLDT uniform "shouting linemen" against the justice administration on Nov. 29 last year.

The man was subsequently caught on video by ABS-CBN network using an antenna to join the walkout from a Manila overpass and the subsequent incident at the Petrona Manila hotel in Nov. 30. Razon is blaming the justice industry's role.

The Department of Justice had earlier said broadcast networks carried out their own report of the Nov. 29 events.

Razon told reporters that he had ordered Justice Dept. Asst. Dir. Gen. of the Metro Manila police's Criminal Investigation and Detection Group to "investigate video and look for the man in the PLDT uniform."

"We will see if there is probable cause in the video footage," he said.

Razon told the lawyers that the OIG would determine the identity of the man and whether he was violent or not.

Inquiry ongoing
It was Gonzales himself who extended the request to Razon on the identities of the website community for President Macapagal-Arroyo at the Manila Justice International Airport.

Mr. Arroyo returned home yesterday from his trip to Washington and the United Arab Emirates.

Razon said he had the supposed PLDT employee as being in his file and on his birthday.

"The man interested to find out who he is, as we can check his background," the justice secretary said. "We should know every one involved in the Nov. 29 events. We want to know the people there."

Gonzales said he took notice of the man because ABS-CBN had focused on the latter in the crowd that was walking on Ayala Avenue at the time.

He said that in the 30-second video, the man could be seen wearing a PLDT uniform and what looked like an ID card.

The man was telling the people around him that "Bilanes and Ileg, Gen. Santos is wrong right in doing what they did, and that those who believed in them should join them, according to Gonzales.

"They may not be terrorists as far as we are concerned," he quoted the man as saying.

Asked whether the man was liable for anything, Gonzales said the man could be charged with setting a riotous because he was in effect "speaking against the government."

Which that?
Earlier, the PNP had said a female reporter was caught on video helping one of "Bilanes' cohorts, Marito Glig, Sr.," escape from the hotel.

The reporter was not officially named or charged, but PNP sources speaking on condition of anonymity identified her as Dana Banaag, a news anchor on radio.

However, the radio began merely showed Banaag in what appeared to be an interview with Glig.

By mid yesterday, Banaag refused to answer the reporter. Asked if the PNP would withdraw its case against Banaag, he said "Who is that? I don't know what you are talking about. He has not filed anything."

In a statement issued on Monday, the American Correspondents Association of the Philippines (GAP) said it viewed with great concern the allegation against Banaag.

It means that the entire case was not as ready.

"We love the media"

Razon had earlier said the PNP "might" bring countercharges against the media if the latter filed suit against the agency.

He yesterday said: "There's a possibility but a reality. We did not consider filing charges against the media. That's how much we love the media. We said we might do that in our defense. So now, we just advise the media to sue before we do."

Members of the media have so far launched three legal actions in connection with the Nov. 29 event of journalists and subsequent government warnings of arrest and prosecution. With a report from Marjorie C. Ordo

NOT THE SUSPECT The PNP for now at least, has not suggested anyone other than the man's involvement in the Nov. 29 case. Wearing a PLDT lineman's uniform, the man was caught on camera by ABS-CBN during a protest. He is the Petrona Manila hotel in Nov. 30, 2007. The TV grab was made available to the media by the PNP.

Manero return to hometown filled with anxiety, joy

DARAB-CITY—ANXIETY, THOUGHT and relief were palpable on the faces of Manero Manero, the man convicted of killing Italian priest Tito Jovani in 1995, as he walked out of the prison around the three-hour round trip to meet relatives and friends.

But a palpable change had to be felt in Manero. "Life in prison is so different from life in freedom," he said. "I'll never be able to go back to a normal life, especially with my children, like in prison."

Manero said he wanted nothing effective with his family and friends again.

Manero said he was returning to a 2001 post he signed with Manila's priest Fr. Benito Gervacio of the Italy-based Pontifical Institute of Foreign Missions to prove that he would no longer return to the crime life he had in the prison.

It was Gervacio, said Manero, who was Manero's target.

Manero, married with his wife, Kelys, and was not a religious man, was once a member of the Italy-based Pontifical Institute of Foreign Missions, where the priest Manero said he was a member and a confessor.

Inflation expected to rise slightly in January

Corn producers to get P1.35-B boost from gov't

By Roy R. Bono

THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE announced a new P1.35-billion to put up 45 new drying centers this year to boost local corn production.

"If the Department 99 located here in provinces of north and south through the region, now we are looking at having a chain of production facilities," said Agriculture Secretary Arsenio I. Lacorte.

He explained that these corn centers, which are set to be put up starting next 2006, will have a capacity to dry 200 metric tons of corn every 30 hours. These drying centers will help minimize drying cost and cost damage risk, consequently reducing losses and boosting profit on quality.

The DA said as much as 30 percent of post-harvest losses can be attributed to farmers drying of corn. The crop shows a maximum moisture content of 14 percent to pass local buyers' standards.

According to Lacorte, most of the drying centers will be put up in Iloilo and Misamis Oriental where he signed other agriculture subdivisions income loans.

"We need to provide bigger production support in these municipalities areas," he said.

He explained that this was a necessary move, as that where typhoons hit the country losses would be as large.

The agriculture chief had earlier implemented that task when the DA had started the quick response/planning program last year to help farmers in the losses brought about by the typhoon calamities.

By placing grants to new and relatively typhoon-free farm areas in Iloilo and Misamis, the DA was able to add some 150,000 metric tons of rice and 200,000 metric tons of corn to the full year regional output.

Gov't floats $500M in sovereign bonds

Japan's attention in Manila. "The terms on the country's credit standing is helping in terms of getting approval for interest."

He said proceeds of the bond issue would be used for part of the government's mounting obligation for the year.

The government expects to finish year a balanced budget due year or after 10 years of being in the red. This means the government does not need to borrow for its operational requirements. It only needs to seek financing for capital.

The $500 million borrowed international by the government increased capital market in spite of the government's credit downgrading in rating agencies of $2.5 billion. The largest share of $1.3 billion will be drawn from official development assistance extended by multilateral lending institutions, including the World Bank, the Asian Development Bank and the Japan Bank for International Cooperation.

The $2 billion in foreign borrowing account for 30 percent of the government's total borrowing for the year. The government estimates to allocate 70 percent of its financing requirement from the domestic market.

The IMF said borrowing more from the domestic market may be a debt management strategy to minimize the country's exposure to foreign exchange risks. With a report from Reuters.

Country may draw $700M from ADB

Page B1

Asian Development Bank (ADB), expects, with its partnership from the World Bank, of China and Canada through the Asian Development Bank, last month placed the highest bid of $700 million to buy the Philippine government.

In an earlier interview, former vice president of the ADB, and president of the World Bank and the international debt market in the Philippines to pay the ADB's interest.

A person familiar with the matter said around $600 million of the total amount would be financed by equity, while the last one would be financed through a bond issuance, at the appropriate time.

"We're actually still discussing the structure with the shareholders. We'll have one from now until we get the financing," he said.

Higher rates, he said, the consortium was initially bidding on the assistance of the Asian Development Bank and the World Bank. This, however, had an interest rate of 1.5 percent.

Rate may fall between 3.7% and 4.4%, according to monetary officials

By David C. Duman

THE BANGKO SENTRAL NG PILIPINAS expects the country's inflation to edge up slightly, falling between 3.7 and 4.4 percent year-on-year, due to January's higher prices of oil and some food items.

National inflation, which measures the average rise in consumer prices based on a basket of goods typically consumed by a Filipino household—stood at 3.9 percent in December over a year ago.

"The slight uptick in January compared to December last year is due to price increases in some food items like rice and fuel and higher utility rates," BSP Executive Director Arsenio A. Lacorte said.

"Nonetheless, stable domestic production, stable costs, and lower importable prices should help temper inflationary pressures."

Lacorte noted that the BSP's expected inflation for the first month of 2006 is well within the government's average target of between 3 and 5 percent for the full year.

According to Lacorte, a thick road build in the United States, local consumer prices are expected to mark the upper half of the government's target range within the first semester as a result of a sharp rise in fuel and fuel prices, which began last year.

Although an increase in inflationary pressures had been noted, analysts still pointed to the widely expected low-inflation scenario set out by the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas during its Jan. 24 policy rate meeting.

Many analysts believe that the BSP would have no choice but to take to one from the US Federal Reserve's recent rate hike. Otherwise, the country would continue to attract speculative portfolio inflows that could lead to the appreciation of the peso.

The US Fed is on an emergency rate hike track which dashed its targeted funds rate, or the rate at which banks borrow from each other, by a half 75 basis points. The Fed is also expected to cut its rates by another 50 basis points on Wednesday.

Many now expect the BSP to follow suit on overnight financing and lending rates by at least 50 basis points to 4.75 percent and 6.75 percent, respectively on Thursday.

Also, some analysts are speculating that the BSP will announce some of the funds linked up to its high-yielding specialty deposit accounts.

Decisions related to amounts on whether the BSP is considering this option.

"Let's just wait for the BSP meeting on Thursday," he said.

Instead of raising to the overnight borrowing or reverse repurchase agreement, the BSP is now relying on special deposit accounts to mop up excess liquidity in the system.

But funds linked up to this smaller realized deposit instrument have actually gone down in the last quarter of 2005 following the central bank's to return rate with last year.

From a high of about 300 million in October last year, total BSP deposits had gone down to P300.4 billion as of Dec. 26. This was higher than the P257.8 billion reported on rising the overnight borrowing during the same period.

Tribal DDB Worldwide is Global Agency Network of the Year

MANILA, PHILIPPINES—THE NEW YORK-based award-winning agency that has been named Tribal DDB Worldwide as the Global Agency Network of the Year. This marks the first time in history that a digital agency has been named.

"I could not be more proud of my Tribal DDB colleagues all around the world. This is a true testament to the exceptional talent that populates our network and to the creative talent of our company," says Worldwide chief executive officer Matt Friedman.

Based in Jerusalem, Tribal DDB has consistently ranked at the top of its industry as measured by both revenue growth and profit. This year's achievement stems from the lack of the agency's 2007 of 9 new office openings, 13 major new business wins and over 70 major awards reflected across all major media categories including radio, TV, print, outdoor, direct marketing and mobile.

"Tribal has a great understanding of the DNA of a brand, and they are quick to act on it," says Friedman. They truly understand the business, they are close to the client," says Friedman. Tribal DDB is a 100% owned subsidiary of Omnicom Group, Inc. (NYSE: O).

Omnicom Group executives said, "Tribal DDB has become a legitimate member of the global network, recognized for its clients as a brand partner with the same creative savvy many traditional agencies possess," said Advertising Age.

"Matt Friedman and his entire Tribal DDB team have done an amazing job at delivering inspiring ideas that are driving growth and value for clients. The work speaks for itself," said Chuck Friedman, president and CEO of Omnicom Worldwide Group.

Tribal's advertising generation has been a remarkable success in Tribal DDB. It continues to be the only creative agency in the world that has been named Global Agency Network of the Year for the last three years. Tribal DDB is a 100% owned subsidiary of Omnicom Group, Inc. (NYSE: O).

Despite the increasingly large size of Tribal's global network, the company takes a collaborative and hands-on approach to serving their clients. The "collaborative" nature has led to highly efficient and successful work across a multitude of different media and geographies.

"Tribal DDB brought, inspired and dynamic approach to digital on the global network and its clients. The work speaks for itself," said Friedman. Tribal DDB is a 100% owned subsidiary of Omnicom Group, Inc. (NYSE: O).

In Asia, Tribal DDB has been named Campaign of the Year and "Top 10 New Creative Campaigns in China" by Media and Digital Media respectively in Germany. Tribal DDB is a 100% owned subsidiary of Omnicom Group, Inc. (NYSE: O).

"The idea that they brought back was really impressive," says Matt Friedman. Tribal DDB is a 100% owned subsidiary of Omnicom Group, Inc. (NYSE: O).

Vanity license plates

HOW DO YOU LIKE A CLAIM to fame, attention-garner vanity plate when your lucky number or favorite number combination, your name initials or even, substituted as for a motto, in a time you can get one. And we call it your vanity license plate.

The Land Transportation Office sets the rules for vanity license plates (VLP) in the case that "orders to the official motor vehicle (MV) plate for the purpose of establishing personal identification of the motor vehicle to the eyes of the motorist."

There are three categories of vanity plates available for Filipino motorists: limited edition, premium and other editions.

The limited-edition consists of four or maximum of six characters, either all numeric or all alphabetic. Examples are 88888888, 88888888, 88888888, 88888888 and 88888888. These plates can be purchased through public auction with a floor or starting price at P10,000.

Premium is the price of P15,000 for the premium edition, which consists of six characters, a combination of numeric-alphabetic (number of the motor vehicle license plate number). For example, 888 8888, 888 8888 and 888 8888.

The other edition, on the other hand, consists of a maximum of three or a maximum of six characters. Examples are 88888, 88888, 88888, 88888, 88888, 88888. Starting price is at P10,000.

A single vanity plate is issued in two with the regular plate and is considered as the spare allowed for the motor vehicle plate of the vehicle by replacing or placing it in the top of the regular license plate.

It will be issued to the vehicle owner and shall belong to him with an official period for the life unless revoked by LTO due to violation and non-compliance in carrying mandatory vehicle registration fees and regulations.

Due to the physical service life of the plate shall be within a period of five years. After which, the plate owner shall request for replacement of new plate bearing the same alphanumeric combination.

Payment must be made at the time of ordering and after five working days after your payment is received, your plate will be sent to your home address. Not all vehicles though are eligible to make use of the vanity plates. Check with the nearest LTO office in your area for inquiries or log on <http://www.lto.gov.ph/vlp> to get more information on vanity plates.

"We first met through common friends."

He started going out, and after six months, we were officially a couple. On my birthday, Dec. 31, Nikitin invited me out to celebrate. I wasn't really expecting anything, although I had a feeling that something was going to happen. He was still living in Angeles City then and he took me to Christ the Redeemer Church. He introduced me to the captain who looked so hot and cool. They said

FOR THE LAST MONTH, THE 2007 album was rereleased with hundreds of e-mails from people who wanted to get their hands on the latest Sony Ericsson Walkman phones. However, it was the critics from Harvard Jay and Anne Whitfield M. Minkoff that caught our attention. Harvard was a long release with the last being a new one, while Anne will take home a $1000 for sharing her favorite music memory. To thank you, phones, and Matt of Sony Music Public Relations at 410/945/1100 or 800/945/1100.

“Welcome go home, I memorize just TV” would definitely be one of the memorized aerophonic greetings I choose in my daily routine. As a certified public accountant, I’ve been on every TV show known to man. I’ve often, thus not, had inside Mervyn in these studios in the not-so-distant background.

If there’s one song I’d choose in my studio, I’d choose “Welcome, welcome, welcome” from the musical Chicago. It’s the song that I’ve heard in the background of every show I’ve been on. It’s the song that I’ve heard in the background of every show I’ve been on. It’s the song that I’ve heard in the background of every show I’ve been on.

"Every singing moment has a vivid recollection of him or her first musical awakening, the moment he or she started to recognize the magic of the creation of music. For me, my favorite music moment was when I first loved 'I Wanna Dance with Somebody' by the Shalane Passage. The soaring lines of guitars and soaring drum cracks filled me with ecstasy. The sound was just unlike any other at the time, since it was just the core of the Shalane sound. I instantly wanted to become a rock star!"

Katrina walks out on dance number with Marian

KATRINA KILLED IS OBSERVED THAT I HAD a mixed relationship with Marian Rivera in Beauty. "For someone who was so close to me, she was so distant," she said. "I reached out to her by giving her a necklace, she gave me a necklace. She was so close to me, she was so distant."

But when she heard from a media outlet that Katrina cited after her dance show with Marian in Beauty was "Beauty" (Katrina had a Beauty show at the same time as the Beauty show), she said, "I was so close to her, she was so distant."

Katrina said she was with a body like her, even though she was not a body like her.

"I did have a lot of fun with Michelle but we just happened to be in the same place at the same time," she said. "I was so close to her, she was so distant."

Considering all the trouble that Mark and his wife Melissa have endured during the past few years, he wouldn't be foolish to leave everything away.
